Electronic Resources at NSU Libraries

All electronic resources may be accessed by clicking on either NSU Libraries Catalog or Databases from the library home page. This guide lists a few of our more commonly accessed electronic resources; remember that we have several additional electronic databases available.

Citations to articles and books in these databases DO NOT appear in MLA or APA format. Consult your style manual for the exact format. Remember, when citing a full-text article or chapter; cite it as information from an online database – not as the actual physical book or article. See your teacher if you have bibliographic questions.

Remember: Always access our databases through the Databases page at: www.nsula.edu/watson_library/database/default.htm. If you are accessing databases while off-campus, you will need a username and password. Refer to the library guide for Remote Access available at: www.nsula.edu/watson_library/lib_guides/default.htm.

NSU LIBRARIES CATALOG
Find books in the NSU Libraries
- Contains about 70% of all library holdings including additions since 1994
- Search by author, title, or key word (“words or phrase”)

ACADEMIC SEARCH PREMIER
Scholarly and popular periodicals in many fields, not just literature and the humanities
- Begin with Basic Search
- Can limit to “Scholarly (Peer Reviewed) Journals”
- Approximately 60% full-text

JSTOR
Deep back-file of scholarly journals in the Arts, Sciences, and Business
- Most articles are full-text
- Coverage goes back to the 19th Century in some cases
- Enter search terms at the top and then Select Disciplines or Journals to search

LEXISNEXIS ACADEMIC UNIVERSE
LexisNexis™ provides authoritative legal, news, public records, and business information
- Most articles are full-text
- Excellent source for newspaper articles
- Use Quick News Search to search all LexisNexis news content
- Use Guided News Search to tailor the search to your needs